The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

STALIN'S Red armies continue to carve their way into the Hitlerite front—further consolidation of their position about the strategic fortified center of Narva up north in the Baltic state of Estonia, another great thrust into pre-war Poland and down in the Dnieper bend and the encirclement of the more Nazi divisions to add to the 10 divisions surrounded last week.

Militarily the situation on the whole in the European theater looks good for the Allies. Still, it seems to be that, taking the long view, the political developments which are flooding out of Moscow are even more important than the fresh gains on the battle fields. Actually, of course, it's because of the victories that we are getting the surge of political developments.

The European conflict is rapidly becoming a politico-military affair. And the whole trend seems to be in the direction of extending Russian influence westward across the continent—eastward into Asia, for that matter.

The big break came last week when we had Moscow's startling announcement extending the sovereignty of the 16 states of the Soviet union to include the right to establish independent diplomatic relations abroad and maintain armies. The world is still trying to figure that out. However, one thing seems clear, and that is that Moscow has created a flexible commonwealth of nations which can absorb as many foreign countries as decide they would like to join.

Today we get a follow-up. Russia intimates strongly that she plans to give the stamp of approval to the establishment of a Polish state independent of the exiled government in London as a basis for settling the hot Russo-Polish territorial disputes.

But that's only half the story. Moscow radio says the first move of the new foreign office in the Ukraine—one of the republics of the Soviet union—will be to make a treaty with the "new" Polish government. Then, says the radio, "a new democratic Poland will arise." The broadcast didn't suggest that this new Polish government might apply for admission to the Soviet commonwealth of nations, but who says it won't? We should know the answer before long, if the Red armies continue their westward rush into Poland.

CLINIC HOSPITAL BOARD IS NAMED

Nathan C. Hunt was re-elected to serve a three-year term as trustee at the annual meeting of the Central Clinic and Hospital association.

Other trustees are R. F. Benninger, Atty. H. L. Reese, Miss Letta Gibson, Dr. Gail A. Reese, Dr. L. A. Cobbs and Dr. Seward Harris of Lisbon.

The board named the following officers: President, Dr. Reese; vice president, Dr. Cobbs; secretary-treasurer, Miss Gibson.

Albert R. Hanna, hospital superintendent, presented his annual report, which revealed that 1,214 patients were admitted and treated in 1943, as compared with the 1,263 in 1942. Total patient days service in 1943 was 12,080, as against the 1942 figure of 11,407 days.

Total operating income for last year was $87,773.42, the report showed. Operating expenses rose from $75,916.26 in 1942 to $90,585.17 in 1943. The 1942 net income, according to records, amounted to $78,579.53. The hospital ended the year with a net operating loss of $2,811.75.

Improvements at the hospital included the installation of a water softening plant, a modern resuscitator added to the institution's equipment.

Hanna reported that the hospital had an average daily occupancy of 90 per cent of the total available facilities. The bed capacity of the hospital is 32.

OPA Calls Meeting Of County Butchers

A meeting of all retail meat dealers in Columbiana county, to bring these merchants up to date on all of the Office of Price Administration price and ration regulations, will be held at 8 p. m. Wednesday, in the Lisbon High School auditorium.

At this meeting ample opportunity will be given for answering all questions of Salem merchants concerning OPA maximum price regulations covering beef, veal, lamb and mutton and rules covering the sale of pork.

Price Specialists from the OPA district office in Cleveland who will attend the conference and who will answer the retailer's questions include: A. H. Anderson, district price executive; C. C. Taylor of the District Food Price Division; Alfred G. Schafer, District Food Rationing Officer and Lamar K. Donahay, local District Price Representative serving the Columbiana county area.

Price Panel Chairman Panel Members and Price Clerks of the four War Price and Ration boards in Columbiana county will be introduced to the meat merchants attending the conference.

Lake Cottage Entered

Owen Beardon of Alliance reported to the sheriff's office that his summer cottage at Westville lake had been entered and a number of articles, including a gasoline lantern and a lawnmower, taken. The owner discovered the loss yesterday on a visit to the cottage.

Scouts Will Hold Anniversary Dinner Here Tuesday Night

Salem Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts, together with scout leaders, will highlight their national Boy Scout anniversary observance with a covered dinner at 6:15 p. m. Tuesday in the Memorial building. Parents of the scouts will be guests.

The 34th anniversary week observance opens tomorrow throughout the nation.

The Salem Scouts were first organized in 1910 with seven troops which held meetings in a barn between Lundy and Lincoln avenues.

The British Boy Scout association, of which the American movement is an outgrowth, was publicly inaugurated in Birkenhead, England, Jan. 24, 1908. The Boy Scouts of America was incorporated under District of Columbia laws Feb. 8, 1910, when a meeting was held by 34 organizations favoring a federal incorporation of the movement. The incorporation was granted by the House of Representatives.

Prior to the Boy Scout organization, Y. M. C. A. had carried on a boys program at Salem, Mass., beginning in 1867. In 1909 and 1910 the program had more than 150,000 boy members and 400 camps in operation.

A federal charter was granted by Congress June 15, 1916, giving protection to name, insignia and authorization of the uniform. By the close of 1942 the organization listed 42,795 sponsoring institutions including 19,825 churches; 9,136 fraternal organizations; 2,266 American Legion posts; 1,283 Rotary clubs; 1,266 Lions; 824 Kiwanis; 5,156 schools and colleges; and others.

TWO WOMEN, BABY HURT IN MISHAP

Two women and a baby were injured slightly when their car overturned on Route 224, a mile east of Berlin Center, at 7:45 a. m. today. The accident occurred when Edith Marrow, 49, of Sharpsville, Ind., attempted to pass a truck, as both vehicles traveled west on the highway. The driver lost control of her car on the icy road. The machine ran into the ditch and overturned.

Mrs. Marrow suffered a contusion of the head and Mrs. Viola Miller, 20, of Sharpsville, Ind., received a slight head injury. Marlene Miller, six-months-old daughter of Mrs. Miller, suffered a bruise to the right side of the face.

The truck was driven by Robert S. Boyer, 21, of Coshocton.

Prepare Jury To Hear Collett Case Feb. 28

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Feb. 7.—A special venire of 75 persons was to be drawn today for the trial of James W. Collett, charged with first degree murder in the deaths Thanksgiving eve of his brother-in-law, Elmer McCoy, 59, Mrs. McCoy, 64, and their daughter, Mildred, 29.

Collett's trial is to begin Feb. 28.

NEW ATTACKS BY ENEMY IN ITALY HALTED

Fifth Army Troops Regain Lost Ground in Beach-head Below Rome

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Feb. 7.—American troops in the Anzio beachhead have repulsed a strong new German attack which broke through the Allied perimeter, three miles west of the vital road and rail hub of Cisterna, and have restored their original positions, it was announced today.

Cisterna is astride the Apennine way and an electrified railway 26 miles southeast of Rome, and about 10 miles east of Carroceto (Aprilia), where previous German counter-attacks were blunted.

The Germans began the new assault Saturday evening with infantry, tanks and artillery. Fighting raged through the night and into yesterday, before the Nazis were pushed back to the starting point with losses.

(A Sunday dispatch from Daniel De Luce, Associated Press correspondent on the beachhead, said the Americans were driven back about 500 yards Saturday night but recovered the ground.)

Enemy Is Reinforced

The Nazis, reinforced along the beachhead perimeter to at least four divisions and an SS brigade by the arrival of the 715th infantry division from southern France, made lesser attacks along the line. Some German elements were spotted forming for another attack against the British north of Carroceto, but the formation was broken up by accurate artillery fire and the British captured 300 of the enemy.

Grim house-to-house fighting continued in Cassino on the main Fifth army front, but the Americans battled up Mt. Cassino just west of the town, already nearly encircled, and reached a point within a few hundred yards of the famous Benedictine monastery at the crest.

Eighth army troops along the Adriatic drove into the villages of Pizzoferrato, two and a half miles northwest of Sant' Angelo, and Montenerodomo, four miles south of Torrocello.

Snow, Rather Than Cold Wave, Arrives

A predicted weekend cold wave for Ohio failed to materialize, although the snow which might have accompanied it arrived here on schedule, blanketing the city and surrounding area for the second time this winter.

Eight tenths of an inch of snow had fallen up to noon today. A light fall last night became a snowstorm this morning, continuing most of the day. Farmers welcomed the snow as a relief from the winter drought which has seriously threatened winter wheat and other crops. While today's fall does not compare with the season's first on Jan. 23, which measured more than an inch and a half, it was heavy enough to cover streets with a wet slippery coating, hazardous to driving.

A low pressure area, state weather observers explain, developing north of a mass of cold air moved toward Ohio and saved the state from the expected frigid wave.

The lowest temperature recorded here during the weekend was 26 at 6 p. m. yesterday and at midnight last night. Today's noon reading of 30 was the highest.

Winter Drouth In Ohio Is Expected To End Before Long

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Feb. 7.—Ohio's winter drouth—next most severe in weather bureau history—should end, but that is not a forecast it will, Meteorologist George W. Mindling said today.

"All things have to end—even drouths—and this one has run much longer than is normally expected for winter months," he declared after state-wide reports showed the six-month average ended Jan. 31 totaled only 9.7 inches of rainfall compared with a normal of 17.27 inches.

"I would not make a prediction...but all past conditions point to its termination soon," he added. Only in the six months October, 1939, through March, 1941, when precipitation totaled 9.31 inches has drouth been greater than this winter.

Last month was the driest January on record—97 of an inch.

Many Ohio farmers have been hauling water for several weeks. The wheat crop, planted when the drouth was starting, was slow in germinating and has produced little growth during the winter. The same is true of winter rye and barley, crop experts said.

Dr. H. C. Ramsower, Ohio State university's agriculture extension director, said the state picture was not encouraging, but agriculturists were afraid to predict either success or failure of 1943 plantings.

Dr. Wilbert E. Stout, state geologist, said normal rains were needed to bring up the subterranean water supply, and it might be three to eight months before wells and streams would be refilled after such rainfall.

The Ohio water supply board reported the state water table—level of underground water—dropped 3.17 feet last year.

Society of Engineers Will Meet On Tuesday

Mahoning Valley chapter of the Society of Professional Engineers will meet at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday in Youngstown to see movies on production and use of industrial flag.

New chapter officers are Fred Hubbard, president; R. D. McLean, vice president; A. P. Stoll, secretary, and H. D. Coe, treasurer.

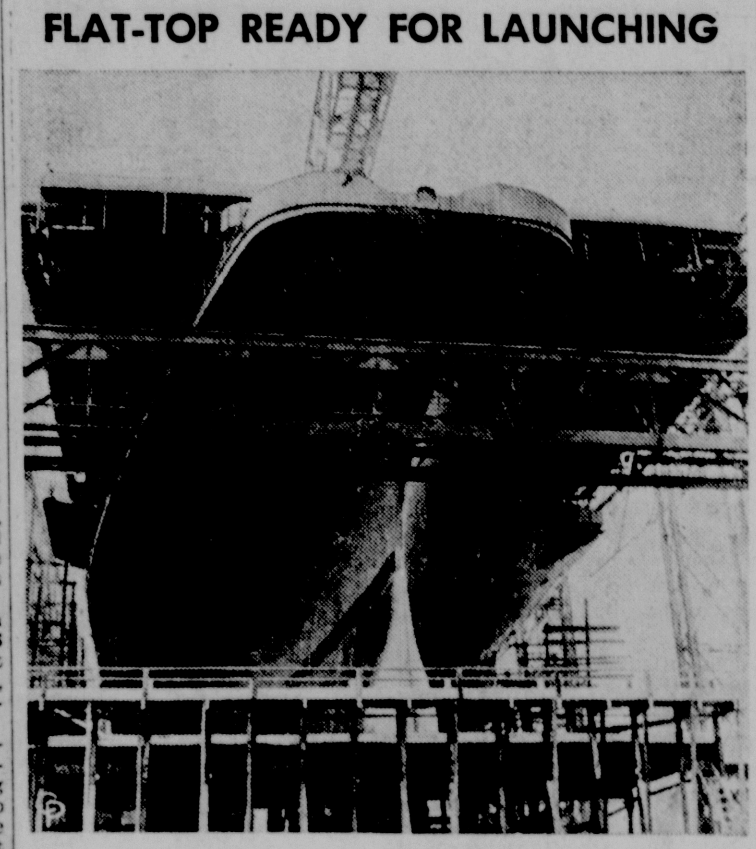

Directors are, Columbiana county, A. V. Smith of Salem, and Earl Newell of Columbiana; Mahoning county, W. A. Jenkins and N. R. Porterfield; Trumbull county, W. S. Harvey and J. J. Wass.

A post-war planning committee of 20 members has been formed with Luther France, sanitary engineer of the Mahoning sanitary district, as chairman. Charles O. Snyder, Columbiana county engineer, and A. V. Smith were appointed to this committee.

Kwajalein Occupation By Yanks All But Finished

(By Associated Press)

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Feb. 7.—American troops and Marines have tucked all but a small part of Kwajalein atoll under the United States flag after capturing three more islands from resisting Japanese and occupying other islands which were not defended.

Occupation of the Marshall Islands atoll, once a formidable Japanese plane and naval base, "is nearly complete," Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said yesterday in a communique. He announced that Guegwe, Bngej and Ebler islands had been captured after "moderate resistance."

Meanwhile Navy Seabees were pushing their huge bulldozers over the rubble of what had been a huge airfield and installations on Roi and Namur islands and a powerful American airbase and naval base were taking shape at the northern tip of the atoll.

On Kwajalein island, cracked by the Seventh Army division on the southern end of the atoll, engineers were putting the airfield into shape. "All the Marshalls and the eastern Carolines have been brought within range of our bombers, including Truk which is on the fringe of our bombers' new effective striking radius," said Maj. Gen. Willis H. Dargatzis, commander of the Seventh army air force.

(Truk is believed Japan's strongest central Pacific bastion and is 938 airline miles from Kwajalein.)

Capture of Guegwe, Migej and Ebler islands gave the Americans control of two more channels in the huge lagoon, already anchorage for units of the United States fleet.

The Americans now have gathered in 21 of the 32 principal islands of the atoll.

(Tokyo radio meanwhile reported intense fighting was "still in progress on Kwajalein island" and added, without confirmation, two American destroyers had been sunk and another destroyer and a cruiser set afire.)

Nimitz said Army and Navy planes hammered five Marshall atolls still in Japanese hands on Feb. 3, 4 and 5—Eniwetok, Wotje, Maloelap, Mili and Ujae. None of our planes was lost.

Reilly To Discuss War Strategy Here

Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly, who will speak on America's grand strategy in the present war at the Town Hall meeting at 8 p. m. Thursday in the High school auditorium, holds many decorations, including the D. S. M. won in World War I.

Reilly, who was the original American predictor of blitzkrieg warfare, was in France when the present war broke out. He saw 20 battles in the Spanish Civil war, the dress rehearsal for the present war, and later spent a year in Europe.

Former editor of Army and Navy Journal, he has been commended at various times by the secretary of war, the chief of staff, chief of ordnance and generals under whom he served.

On the basis of his life-long army training and experience, and his observation in Europe during the present war, Gen. Reilly discusses many questions of the moment, including air power, materiel, leadership and other factors.

Girl, 17, Escapes Assault Attempt Saturday Night

Police are investigating the attempted assault of a 17-year-old girl Saturday night near her home on Woodland ave. She told police that a youth followed her several blocks, then accosted her a short distance from her home.

When the girl broke away from him and ran into a neighbor's home the youth fled. The girl furnished a description of the man, police said.

The serviceman, while police tried to find Salem relatives, suddenly regained his memory and explained that he was enroute to his home in Mallory, W. Va., and was in Salem to visit friends before going home. A fall in which he received a head injury caused the amnesia, it is believed. Salem friends were located and the Coast Guardsman was released from the hospital.

Paramushiro Island Feels Warship Fire

By NORMAN BELL

ABOARD A U. S. DESTROYER IN THE NORTH PACIFIC, Feb. 4.—(Delayed)—United States warships bombarded Japan at home for the first time today and caught the enemy by surprise.

A bombardment lasting about 20 minutes battered the harbor and land installations of Kurabu point on the southern tip of Paramushiro island.

Enemy gunners, either surprised or attempting to put out star shells which preceded the heavy blasting, fired into the air when the attack first started. Then, giving evidence of becoming more rattled, they fired along their own beaches and at the Pacific ocean and sea of Ohkotak.

No ship of the attacking force, which steamed under bright moonlight within five miles of the shore batteries, was hit.

The task force was commanded by Rear Admiral Wilder D. Baker operating under Vice Admiral Frank Jack Fletcher, commander of the North Pacific fleet. Both messaged ships and crews following the attack congratulating them on being the first to bombard Japanese home territory.

The army also was represented aboard Admiral Baker's flagship by Major General Davenport Johnson, commander 11th air force, and Brig. Gen. E. D. Post, chief of staff to Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, commander of the Alaskan department.

General Post commands troops of the Alaskan department now on maneuvers which may be in preparation for an assault on Paramushiro.

Enemy Feared Invasion

The wild nature of the Japanese gunnery indicated they feared an invasion was already underway. Tracer bullets from some of their guns sputtered along the shoreline, apparently aimed at shadows or imaginary landing barges.

This destroyer on which I rode as the only war correspondent accompanying the task force was skippered by Commander Harry Smith, former flag lieutenant to Admiral Fletcher in the Coral sea fighting and at the battle of Midway.

Two weeks ago I became the first war correspondent under Japanese home soil when I made a bombing mission with navy planes over the same part of Paramushiro.

The planes of Commodore Leslie E. Gorham's fleet air wing four were back last night, the second consecutive night of their resumed "Tokyo Short Line Express." They hit shortly after the bombardment.

The island defenders perhaps had been watching for them instead of glancing out to sea once in awhile because alert short watchers might

SOVIETS TRAP MORE GERMANS

Reds Less Than 45 Miles From Hitler's Original Invasion Line

MOSCOW, Feb. 7.—The Russian army is less than 45 miles at some points from the lines where Adolf Hitler launched his invasion of the Soviet union, and all along the 1,200-mile long eastern front the German army is suffering some of the war's worst defeats, field dispatches said today.

Gaining the upper hand along the lower reaches of the Dnieper river with advances up to 40 miles through a 100-mile-wide gap, Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Third Ukrainian army ruthlessly went about the job of destroying five trapped German divisions (normally 75,000 men) in the Nikolopol sector. Meanwhile, 150 miles to the north, more Nazi corpses littered the thawing Ukrainian earth as the armies of Gens. Nikolai F. Vatutin and Ivan S. Konev drew ever tighter a ring of death around the remnants of 10 divisions near Cherkassy.

Loss of Nikolopol, which reportedly has been furnishing German industries the major amount of manganese used in the Reich's production of war equipment, probably would be the hardest industrial blow to be suffered by the Germans during the entire Russian offensive.

A Pravda dispatch said the point where Malinovsky cut off the five enemy divisions was on the Dnieper river near the mouth of the Buzuluk river, which flows into the Dnieper three miles from Nikolopol.

The Nazis appeared to have lost Krivori Rog along with Nikolopol.

The Germans' long-held springboard immediately across the Dnieper from Nikolopol was an area roughly 25 miles long and 15 miles deep.

YOUNGSTOWN FIRE HITS STEEL PLANT

YOUNGSTOWN, Feb. 7.—The three-story pickling plant of the Republic Steel Corp. was destroyed early today by fire of undetermined origin.

Twelve of the city's 16 fire companies fought the blaze before it was brought under control. The plant was used in a cleaning process for pipe and sheets. A company spokesman said the plant's loss would have a great effect on steel production. He added the plant operated only one shift and that no workers were present at the time the blaze was discovered.

$100,000 Fire Destroys 76-Yr.-Old Cadiz Church

CADIZ, O., Feb. 7.—Fire destroyed the 76-year-old United Presbyterian church here Saturday night, causing damage in excess of $100,000, the Rev. John Calvin Smith said today.

Hampered by low water pressure, firemen from Hopeville, Jewett and Adena joined Cadiz volunteers to bring the fire under control.

Fire Chief Don Vashinder said sparks from the chimney of the parsonage ignited the wooden belfry of the church.

THEN FOR WHOM?

When the question comes up, as it does too frequently, of the government's power to avert a labor stoppage short of such direct means as seizing property, then the country begins to wonder what other authority might bring about a settlement without loss of war production.

When a direct plea by the acting secretary of the Navy and a direct threat by the War Labor board cannot stop members of Mechanics Educational Society of America from striking, in other words, what other authority, short of military intervention, is available?

A few days ago some letters written by wounded servicemen in an army hospital were sent to this newspaper. They had been written by men maimed in the war; one was printed painfully by a man whose right hand was gone and he was learning to write with his left.

All the letters, composed on a doctor's suggestion that the men might benefit from selling what they thought about the war after the sacrifices they had made in it, mentioned the fighting man's universal desire to feel that the people back home are behind him to the limit.

Perhaps there should be a military hospital in the middle of every war production center to remind the producers that the fighters had to keep going till they couldn't keep going any longer, whatever they felt like doing.

UKRAINE TO ITALY TO FRANCE

Encirclement of 10 German divisions in the Ukraine and their systematic extermination by the Russians is an informative background for news of the desperate fighting south of Rome. These are 100,000 German troops which cannot be pulled out of the Russian front and rushed to Italy. These are 100,000 troops which will never be arrayed against invasion on the western front. These are an important part of the German army which no longer needs to be considered as a factor in World War II.

By the same token, the troops which the German high command has sent to Italy will not reappear in Russia. They will be engaged too closely to become available for duty against an Allied invasion. It is too easy to forget in this war that Germany has committed the error called fatal by its military analysts after World War I of dividing its forces. It has been deprived of the striking power to go ahead in Russia. It lacks the striking power to go forward in Italy. It cannot strike England across the channel. It is fighting on the defensive everywhere, its military power divided three ways. The secret of its astonishing success in the early days of the war was the ability to concentrate on one enemy at a time.

Those who question the grand strategy of forcing Germany to divide its strength and fall back on defensive tactics on every front fail to understand the vital connection between its obligation to hold back the Allies in Italy, to hold back Russia in Russia and to maintain at the same time a tremendous army of defense on the invasion coast.

DAMAGE IN ROME

Germany's warning to the Vatican that Rome's fate will be determined by military considerations means that the city will become a battleground if German militarists decide their strategy calls for it. The Allies have no power of determination over that point; they do not hold Rome.

Obviously, if the Germans try to stay there as part of their strategy of sacrificing life and property in Italy to prolong the war, the Allies will not call off the war on that front to avert damage to Rome. They will out the Germans with as much damage to them and as little damage to the historic city as possible.

The present and the coming necessity in America is to set up a defense against German propaganda, which undoubtedly will try to make it appear that the onus of blame is on the Allies, not on Germany. The points of such a defense are plain: They are simply to refuse to believe German-inspired news, to await such factual reports as ultimately will be forthcoming from the Vatican and, meanwhile, to give honest consideration to the military problem of the Allies.

Damage in Rome becomes, under the circumstances, an appraisal of relative values. There are worse things that could happen to the city than the destruction of some of its buildings. Until the Allies proved their ability to force the Germans into retreat, Romans had nothing to look forward to but endless occupation of their city and the entire peninsula of Italy by Germany.

ATMOSPHERE OF MISUNDERSTANDING

Newspapers are understandably pleased when their point of view on the job they try to perform in the United States finds expression in the remarks of someone not identified with the publishing business. The function of a free press is not, after all, something that can be dissociated from its bearing on the processes of representative democracy. Every citizen of the country should understand what is at stake.

Gov. Bricker's address to the Ohio Newspaper association last Friday night revealed a full grasp of the permanent principles of a free press and radio and their application to current situations, with particular regard to the atmosphere of misunderstanding which has been created by certain attitudes and policies of the Roosevelt administration.

These attitudes and policies have been intended to create distrust of the press and skepticism about its exercise of the right to be critical of government. To some extent, perhaps, they have succeeded, though the press has been doing so long with politicians who run for editor that it has learned to accept them as a constant factor in its operation; the radio, though younger, apparently is heir to the same attitude.

Gov. Bricker recognizes what is obvious, that political power instinctively resents the curbs of a watchful press and seeks to dispense with them. The more unscrupulous trustees of the power would like to destroy the independence of the press and exploit it and all other agencies of information for their own advantage, as is done by authoritarian regimes. The governor calls attention to the dangers inherent in wartime censorship, in the concentration of power in the executive branch of the government and in the Roosevelt administration's use of the press for its own propaganda purposes.

His observations constitute well rounded presentation of the problems of a free press and radio as these agencies of information, themselves, see them—and are trying to solve them. They have the added merit in his case of coming from a public figure whose viewpoint on the situation is objective.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, February 8

ACCORDING to the lunar transits it may take much fortitude, patience, determination and hard work to sidestep obstacles, delays and impediments. With prudence, precaution and well-planned tactics and reasonable objectives there may be progress, with a breaking up of static or crystallized situations. But be alert to malevolent forces arising from unexpected sources, safeguard the health and possessions and financial credit as well as personal reputation.

It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be called upon to summon all their determination, courage and endurance in order to break up congested conditions and obstacles coming from unforeseen sources. Delays and disappointments call for patience and perseverance, possibly with the need for relying on their own personal resources and executive ability. Have a care for credit, reputation and health of self and the domestic circles. Make slow but sure the code of operation, thus avoiding sudden changes.

A child born on this day should have much steadiness and stability of character, which will be needed to manage many ups and downs in its career. It may gain from an optimistic outlook on stubborn affairs.

What the Japanese have done to Americans and Filipinos, they have been doing for years to the Chinese. I have seen Japanese soldiers mistreat Chinese, of all ages and sexes, civilian and military, the same and even worse than what we now learn happened to the men of Bataan—Morris Harris, Associated Press executive in eastern Asia for 16 years before Pearl Harbor and a prisoner of Japan for 11 weeks after that event.

The Germans in this war are committing virtually all the atrocities the propagandists in the last war falsely attributed to them. About the only stories of German atrocities we are receiving come from the Russians and the Polish underground. It's time we had some through our own trustworthy news system.—Palmer Hoyt, former OWI domestic branch director.

Eyes Often First to Show Disease

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"IF I HAD to confine myself to the examination of two organs in order to arrive at a diagnosis in a hundred consecutive patients, I would select the skin and the eyes," said a distinguished physician and one whose diagnostic acumen has earned him the right to an opinion.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

"And," he added, "if I were limited to one I would choose the eye." The skin has been called the mirror of the system by one of the most eminent dermatologists of our time. And how it does reflect the disturbances that go on beneath! "He doesn't look well," you say, after you part from a friend you haven't seen for a long time. Or—"How splendid you look—10 years younger!"

Appearance of Eyes and Skin

The judgments are based on the appearance of the eyes and skin. I saw a soldier lately returned from the wars in Africa. Ah, my son, I said to myself, you have had your first experience with malaria. There was a yellowish discoloration on his forehead around the hair line, beneath the tan which comes from taking atabrine, a remedy to prevent malarial attacks. It is a dye and repeated use temporarily discolors the skin.

The eyes—what wells of information they are! They glow with health or reflect illness by their dull sheen. How can we tell anger, or embarrassment, or cold dislike from a glance? Is it the contraction of the pupil or the pull of the muscles, or the narrowing of the lids? No one has ever studied this thoroughly.

Sir Charles Bell, that great anatomist and great artist, made a start in his Anatomy of Expression. "In pain," he says, "the eyeballs are suffused with stagnant blood, there is convulsive action about the muscles of the eyes. The brow is drawn down, the cheek raised, the nostril drawn up. In rage—the eyeballs are seen largely; they roll and are inflated."

Grave's Disease
The terrified expression of Grave's disease or exophthalmic goiter with its popping eyes has been stamped on men coming out of battle. Not only the expression, but the disease, blood diseases, and the chronic infectious diseases, tuberculosis and syphilis, all affect the retina of the eyes in such a characteristic way that the oculist can make the diagnosis without resorting to the consultation of the general physician or the resources of the laboratory.

Medium Sized Arteries Exposed
It is not only the diagnosis itself, but in high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries it is the severity of the condition which can be determined by an examination of the retina. That is the only place in the body where one can see the medium-sized arteries exposed so their elasticity and thickening can be determined.

Many of the acute contagious diseases show up first or last in the eye—measles, chicken pox, etc. Mumps may mump in the lacrimal gland first. Hemorrhage into the white of the eye may denote whooping cough.

So if your oculist gives you a pronouncement on your general condition, or your physician wants an oculist in consultation, believe him.

THE LITTLE DOG BARKED by ANNE ROWE

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

Ada's knock at the door roused me. Hours later, or so I thought. She was red and swollen and she looked terribly upset. And scared besides—of Josie Kilborn. I presumed.

"Please forgive me for this intrusion. But I had to talk to someone," she excused herself. "It's too awful—Mack lying dead and murdered over in that inn, while I was looking for him everywhere."

I agreed that it was awful, and offered her a chair. But she refused to sit down, with a worried glance over her shoulder, doorward.

"If Mrs. Kilborn catches me here, getting down, I'm out of a job," she confessed. "I may be anyway, if she hears I'd warned you. But I just got to talk with you about Mack."

"About why he was in the old inn last night?" I prompted.

She shook her head. "No. I don't know why he was. I hoped you might."

"I don't," I assured her. "I only saw him for a few minutes in the afternoon. He came out of the property shed when I passed by with my dog, and seemed pleased with the dog I had taken to me. He said—I don't remember the exact words, but the gist of them was, he thought Alvin and Vickery—the two polecats—he called them—were 'cooking up' something to annoy Miss Barolite and me."

"Guess he thought they'd more'n annoy you," Ada ventured after some reflection. "Leastways, when he went home he did. I caught him, just as he was starting his Bertha, and tried to tell him you'd hired these here rooms. But he wouldn't listen. Said he was in a hurry. He'd found out something might put a different complexion on the goings on. That's the way he put it, Mrs. Turner. And that he wasn't sure he was right, and had to go and look it up."

"Look what up, and where? It doesn't make sense to me."

Ada asked. "Nor to me. But then, Mack never made sense, right out. Always talked around things. But I think we'd know by now what he'd meant—if he hadn't been murdered."

"Yes—if he hadn't been murdered trying to protect Miss Barolite and me," I said gravely. "And that changes everything. After Miss Barolite's so-called accident, I'd made up my mind to leave you and Mack out of it. But now? You wouldn't want me to keep things from the police that might help find Mack's murderer?"

"I sure wouldn't. And I don't care if Mrs. Kilborn fires me for it. You tell the police all you've a mind to, Mrs. Turner. I'll back you up."

Ada then changed the subject: "I'm glad you sent poor little Stray to the vet's. Mack sure would have liked that. Did you have word from him about the X-ray?"

I told her no. Linda came in just then, and that ended Ada's visit. She immediately became the maid again, saying: "I'm glad you're satisfied with the ironing, Mrs. Turner. Hope you'll be too, Miss Barolite. Anything you want, just call for me," and went out.

Linda had made a remarkable recovery since I'd last seen her. Her dejection had vanished. She was all sparkle, behaving as if she hadn't a care in the world, instead of having narrowly escaped death a few hours earlier, or been an ear-witness of a man's murder, the night before.

The veterinary's pills must have had potent qualities, to work this transformation!

"I'm going out for dinner, d'you mind?" she burst out as soon as Ada had gone. "Bill Parris asked me, and Orne Paulsen heard him, and said he'd go, too. So now I have two escorts. Maybe I'll find out something tonight," she ended, as an afterthought.

"It's all right with me," I assured her. "So long as you are three, I should think it's perfectly safe. But I wouldn't go out with just one person, Linda. Not until we know who cut that rope and who killed old Mack."

For an instant fear was in her eyes. "You bet I won't! To tell the truth—I had the funniest feeling about Bill asking me. Till Orne butted in," she confessed.

"I'm glad he did. He probably felt the same way about it I do," I ventured. "But—are you sure you can go? Didn't the sheriff say anything about staying on the grounds?"

"He didn't. And that's what started it. Bill thought it might be our last chance. Once this Inspector Something-or-other gets here, we'll all be under surveillance."

Linda ran to the closet in the hall between our rooms, leaving the door open. "Not that I care—much. So long as he lets us rehearse. Rehearsal was wonderful this afternoon. Too bad you didn't stay. We got through the whole third act. You wait and see, it's be a grand performance! Uncle Ty'll be tickled pink."

By the time she was through with her rapoddy Linda disappeared into the bathroom with a gay: "Just have time for a quick shower."

Seventeen years made a lot of difference, I thought ruefully as I stepped to the side the window of my room to watch the growing stream of prospective theatregoers. Linda, at twenty, made me feel old and careworn at thirty-seven, the way she managed to throw off the horror of what had occurred, and the dread of what still might happen.

Or—had she? Was her sudden lightheadedness a bit too pronounced? Did it simply prove she was a real good actress?

The thought wouldn't leave me, long after Linda—lovely in a yellow evening dress and woolly white coat had departed. . . . What was the girl up to? What was she trying to find out from Bill Parris?

I went down to dinner into an empty dining room, and sat down to a meal that looked just as delicious as last night's. But I was so lost and lonely and miserable, I didn't taste what I was eating. All I could think was: "If only!"

If only I'd never written that fool play! If only I were in South America now, with Lee! If only McVane weren't out of reach! And: If only these dreadful things hadn't happened!

I was so sunk in self-reproaches and vain regrets, I didn't see Sheriff Weymouth—in a natty blue suit, carrying a large straw hat in his hand—coming toward me, and jumped when he said: "I'd like you to meet Inspector Pettengill, Mrs. Turner. . . . This is Mrs. Turner, Inspector. The lady had the good sense to holler 'police'."

And that's how I met Inspector Josiah-Joe for short—Pettengill, of Cliffport, Maine.

At first glance he didn't strike me as tall. Perhaps in contrast to Sheriff Weymouth's great length, and the six-foot-plus of most of the actors I'd seen around me all day. But five-foot-ten and half is a respectable height for any man, especially if breadth and stamina is added to it. And I can truthfully describe the Inspector as a big man, with a sturdy, well-covered frame that somehow gave him a look of reliability, to which his round, jovial face—no older or younger looking than his forty-one years—added a cheery note in the fine laughing wrinkles around his clever, friendly eyes, and a mouth inclined to perk up at the corners.

Altogether, there was nothing formidable or smacking of the police about him. He was confidence—rather than awe—inspiring. Anyway, I trusted him instinctively, and found myself inviting the two police officers to have at least a cup of coffee with me.

An invitation which they accepted, and during which nothing more important was discussed than the natural beauties of Fern Cove, the fine reputation of the theatre, and the Inspector's "luck" in finding one of the spacious cabins on the short road vacant, and at his disposal.

"It'll make grand headquarters. A good-size living room for my office, and three small bedrooms—for me, my assistant, Sergeant Hatch, and my stenog, Ted Hallet. They're coming tomorrow."

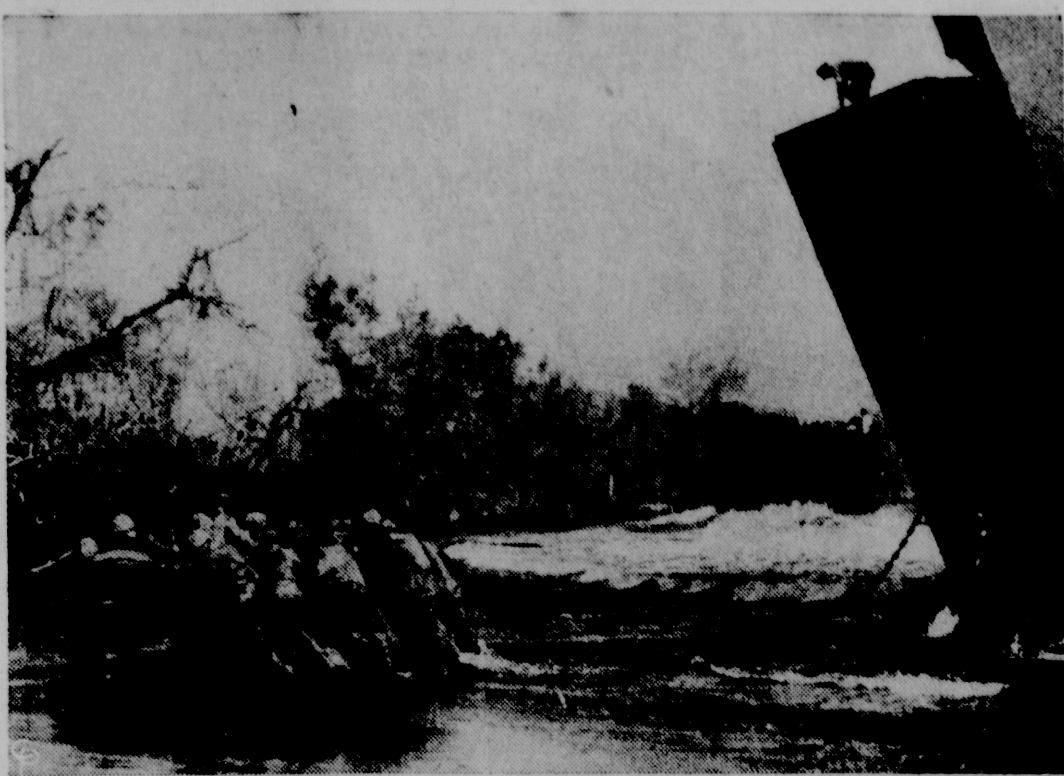

With that, Inspector Pettengill said cheerily: "I aim to show these headquarters to you right off, Mrs. Turner. Better get a coat. Evening's turned cold."

The spacious log cabin halfway down the shore road, which was to be Fern Cove's temporary police headquarters, had obviously been chosen for its isolation and the absence of spy-concealing shrubbery.

Presently we were sitting in its cheerful living room, and Inspector Pettengill was talking in earnest of the crime that had brought him here.

"Been around a couple of hours before I come to you," he informed me, teetering comfortably in a rocking chair. Mostly over to that broken-down old inn—beats all, how they could put two women there overnight!—with the corner and the corpse. I ain't so sure it's

COMMUNITY GROUP AT LISBON FORMED

LISBON, Feb. 7.—A permanent Community Chest organization has been formed here by Civilian Defense units and other organizations which participated in a United Nations war relief and welfare drive last fall.

Mayor G. C. Rauch and Atty. Lynn Riddle, co-chairmen of the drive, were in charge of a meeting in the city hall where the organization was set up with a 15-member board of trustees.

H. B. Vincent was named president and Ross Fox secretary-treasurer of the board, representing Civilian Defense units, labor, industry and civic interests. Members include Judge Lodge Riddle, Glen Hepner, Charles F. Wright, Atty. George Lafferty, Fred Nicholson, Ralph Rose, Louis Binsley, Harry Hum, Fred Burton, Mrs. George Holcomb, Mrs. Walter Connor, Graham Kearney and Dr. Edward Harris.

Disbursement of $4,843.55, collected during the drive, was ordered by the board, as follows: United Nations War relief, $2,500; Lisbon Youth organization, $1,000; Boy Scouts, $500; Salem City hospital and the Central Clinic, $250 each. A total of $343.55 remains in the Community Chest fund.

The organization, which will have charge of all future welfare drives will meet soon to adopt a constitution and by-laws.

Rock Wool Makes Homes Comfortable

Before home insulation became a practical thing, a two-fold problem had to be solved. Not only did the proper insulating material have to be found, but a scientific method developed by which this material could be installed in existing homes.

The first part of this problem was relatively simple. Nature herself provided the answer in a fluffy, wool-like mineral substance formed from molten rock by volcanic eruption. It was Rock Wool—a material whose millions of tiny trapped air cells provided a highly effective barrier to the passage of heat.

But how to adapt this material to the insulation of homes—that part of the problem was not so easy to solve. Scientists at the Johns-Manville research laboratories were given the task. And today man-made volcanoes produce rock wool commercially. Molten rock is subjected to a jet of live steam which literally "blows" it into soft, fleecy particles containing minute trapped air cells which resist the passage of heat. These particles are then gathered together to form a material fluffy as wool, yet fire-proof and permanent as the original rock from which it came. It will not rot or corrode. It is light in weight, odorless, clean and easily handled.

These J-M engineers also developed an ingenious method of actually blowing Rock Wool through a hose and packing it by air pressure into hollow spaces in the attics and walls of houses already built.

R. B. Finley of the Finley Music store, phone 3141, is Columbiana county representative for Johns-Manville "blown" rock wool.

Ancient Greeks established their capital, Athens, five miles inland as protection against the pirate-infested sea.

FLOWERS IDEAL AS VALENTINE GIFTS

A week from today is St. Valentine's day, Monday, Feb. 14, the day all of us will want to do something extra for our loved ones.

As we reach maturity the key printed Valentines with the message of "I love you" is usually replaced with flowers, nature's gift that speaks the language of love better than words.

You will want to send her a big bouquet, a center piece for the table or a living blooming plant and at Endres-Gross, E. State and Penn ave., you can select from many varieties just the kind she admires.

Even fine lacy, embossed beautiful Valentines are displayed at Endres-Gross for those who wish to follow the custom to the letter and there are many art and gift items that today are acceptable as valentine gifts.

Jean Harwood, E.T. Hawkins Wed In Saturday Rites Here

Quiet simplicity marked the marriage of Miss Jean Louise Harwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Arch Harwood of E. State st. to Eugene Thomas Hawkins of Portsmouth, Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eugene Hawkins of East Patchogue, Long Island, N. Y., which was performed at 3 p. m. Saturday in the presence of 75 relatives and friends at the bride's home by Dr. Raymond D. Walter.

Vows of the single ring service were exchanged before an altar of palms and sabotium ferns with lighted candles in branched candelabra on either side.

Following the ceremony Miss Anna Cook presented a program of musical music which included "Serenade" (Schubert), "Still As The Night" (Bohm), "Ave Maria," "Evening Star" from (Tanhauser) and "Bridal Chorus" from (Lohengrin).

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a candlelight satin gown styled with a fitted bodice with small buttons down the back with a full skirt ending in a brushing train. The marquisette yoke was inlaid with a pearl and satin medallion design with a bow knot design extending into long sleeves pointed at the wrists.

Her fingertip veil fell from a Juliet cap of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses clustered around a white orchid.

Mrs. Martha Harwood, wife of Lieut. Commander Richard C. Harwood, served as her sister-in-law's matron of honor in a light blue silk gown fashioned with a fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline and a full corded design skirt. Her bouquet was of yellow roses.

Susie Vance, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Vance, served as train bearer in a long pink swiss organdy dress with matching bonnet.

Jenkins Kiehlaisah of Portsmouth, formerly of Salem, was best man and William Eichberger was usher. Mr. Kiehlaisah and Mr. Eichberger are engineers at the Norfolk Navy yard at Portsmouth, Va., where Mr. Hawkins is employed.

A reception was held for 75 guests at 4 p. m. The bride's table was centered with the bride's and matron of honor's bouquets and Mrs. Walter Null presided at a table attractive with a tiered wedding cake with white tapers in silver candle holders at either side of a bouquet of white flowers.

Guests at the wedding included Dr. Jeanette Miller, Mrs. P. F. Cabut, Mrs. William Schuster and Mrs. W. E. Hall of Massillon; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eugene Hawkins of Long Island, N. Y.; Mrs. Charles Dieckhoff and Mrs. J. L. Decker of Canton; Mrs. J. P. Huxley and Mrs. Robert Huxley of Youngstown and Mrs. Gertrude Eckstein and Mrs. Marjorie Eckstein of Warren.

Mrs. Hawkins attended Centenary college and received her Bachelor of Music degree at Miami university where she was a member of Chi Omega, social sorority, and Delta Omicron, musical honorary sorority.

Mr. Hawkins received his engineer's degree from Rensselaer Polytechnic institute where he was affiliated with Theta Chi fraternity and Sigma Xi, honorary fraternity.

After March 1 the couple will make their home at 4703 King st., Portsmouth, Va.

SIMPLE DRESS, MAKES BEST ACCESSORY, BACKGROUND

The less fabric we have in one dress, the better background it offers for accessories, from diamond jewelry to spring bonnets. The three dresses pictured above make lovely backgrounds for jewel ornaments, hats, etc. The model left is a town frock made of black linen, its cool, smart neckline accented by a pale pink linen collar edged with Irish lace, with a gold lace rosette set with diamonds, diamond and gold earrings. The white crepe frock, center, strewn with pastel tinted posies, is accompanied by a rose trimmed hat, and a bracelet worn over the white gauntlet glove is a bouquet of gold and diamonds. The simple dress, right, is pink linen with pale pink appliques detailing the neckline and big pocket. Two diamond butterfly-like flexible wings are poised on the bowknot embroidered to the neckline. Even the diamond bracelet is not too elegant to wear with this model. — (International)

Theater

Showing tonight and Tuesday at the State is the action film, "Destination Tokyo." Starring Cary Grant and John Garfield, the cast constitutes a superb, utterly convincing portrayal of the kind of a crew that it takes to set out in a submarine and wreak havoc on enemy shipping.

Mae West has the leading role in "The Heat's On" which shows at the State Wednesday only and features Xavier Cugat and Hazel Scott.

Olivia de Havilland has the title role of the experienced Washington secretary-heroine in "Government Girl," billed at the State Thursday through Saturday. Sonny Tufts plays the role of the dollar-a-year man whom she seeks to guide through the mazes of governmental red tape and politics.

Tonight "You're a Lucky Fellow, Mr. Smith" will be at the Grand, along with "Rookies in Burma." "Northwest Passage" will make a return appearance at the Grand Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Grand's bill Thursday through Saturday is the double feature, "Klondike Kate" and "Vigilantes Ride."

Air Cadets Killed

WALNUT RUGE, Ark. Feb. 7.—Aviation Cadet Glen K. Saul of R. D. 3, Troy, O., and Second Lieut. H. E. Bodel of South Orange, N. J., were killed in the training plane crash near Pocahontas, Ark., the Army flying school here reported.

Student Council Begins New Duties At Salem High School

The recently organized student council of Salem High school held its first meeting last week, with Principal B. G. Ludwig as advisor to the group which will regulate student welfare.

Members of the council, elected from the various home rooms, are: Seniors, Ed Ferko, Anna Kenst, Marilyn Page and Marilyn Wilms; Juniors, Sally Campbell, Carl Ferret, Joseph Kelley, Chris Paparodis and Marjorie Zeller; Sophomores, Alice Clark, Ruth Dales, Lloyd Harroff, Leslie Holloway, Frank Mangus, Ansley Mitchell, John Sharp, Munson Thorpe; Freshmen, Jack Beatty, Joseph Ferreri, Eileen Guiler, Margaret Johnston, William McKee, Edwin Mosher, Gene Shafer and John Ursu.

Students enjoyed two assembly programs last month—a talk on "English As She Is Spoken" by Dr. Arnold Young, author of an English textbook and a teacher in Hollywood, and a concert by Miss Ruth Linrude, harpist.

Four new students have been added to the student body in the last few weeks. They are Gladys Reader, a Junior, entered from Wellsville High school; Anthony Battilio, a Sophomore from Leetonia; Marcella Crawford, Junior, and Jack Crawford, Freshman, from East Liverpool.

Slide Rule club members held a party at the school last week, featuring sketches by Dick Butler, Bob Cibula, Dick Widmeyer, Rachel Keister, James Prim and Ruth Umberger. In charge of the party were Ruth Umberger, Marilyn Waechter and William Benson. Mrs. Walter Strain, cooking instructor, served refreshments.

Further plans for Salem High school students' participation in the second annual district music festival at Mt. Union college April 26 have been announced.

Tryouts for sections of band, orchestra and chorus will be held in the afternoon, prior to a general rehearsal for the main program in the evening, at which Oscar Johns, vocal music supervisor in the Findlay schools will be chorus director; Ralph Bush, Cleveland Heights High school director, will be band director; and Amos Weiler of Cleveland John Adams High school, orchestra conductor. Chester M. Brantigan, Salem High school band director, is in charge of band arrangements for the festival.

THIS IS THE YEAR OF DECISION !

LET'S ALL MEET IT TOGETHER!

THE war none of us wanted is the war all of us have got to win—and we're being given our chance this year to make 1944 the year that counts, the year of decision.

With the greatest military strength the world has ever seen in our possession, we are boring in for the knock-out blow. But that blow needs a lot of punch behind it if we are to "count out" the German enemy this year. That's where you come in. For you are being asked this month to play your part in the 1944 march to victory by buying the Bonds that will help to make this the year to be proud of. And it's not only your duty but your privilege, for with every Bond you buy you'll be buying your share of the fruits of victory as well.

For the money you invest now will be yours to spend later for things you have always wanted.

Your duty as an American is to buy at least one extra $100 Bond. But that is just the rock-bottom figure. Thousands of Americans are going to have to invest much more than that during this 4th War Loan drive to make certain that this will be the year that marks the end of the Nazi power.

During this drive keep on buying your regular quota of Bonds where you work, and be sure you buy your extra Bonds there too. Every plant, every office, every community will have its quota—you must see that that quota where you work or live is reached.

This Drive is your Drive—your chance to prove that you are still backing the attack. Show your confidence that this is the year that will really hurt the enemies of your country on land, in the air and on the seas.

WORLD'S SAFEST INVESTMENTS

Denison And Bowling Green Clash Again Wednesday Night

QUAKERS FAVORED IN GIRARD CLASH TUESDAY EVENING

Letdown After Game With Potters Is Only Thing Worrying Brown

Apparently the Salem Quakers are going into a basketball game favored to win—at least that is the picture laid out from a comparison of season records, when they journey to Girard Tuesday to meet Coach Baumgardner's Indians. The contest is to get underway at 8:45 following a test for the Salem reserves at 7:30.

Baumgardner has had to start from scratch this season—no lettermen back from his last year's squad—but evidently has done all right, as his team now has a record of six wins and four losses. The Indians, though not a powerhouse this year, have posted triumphs over Liberty twice, McDonald twice, Newton Falls, and Niles. They have dropped games to Rayen and Chaney, Brookfield, and Warren.

Comparisons between Salem and Girard are possible in the Warren and Rayen games, Salem losing to Warren 43-37, while Girard was defeated 75-50. Against Rayen Salem had little trouble, knocking them off in a listless tussle 34-22 just a week ago. Girard lost to Rayen 59-47. These two angles should give Salem the edge.

Guard Lineup
As his starting lineup, Baumgardner will use Hugh Stiles and William Michaels at forwards, Joe Kender at center, with Lewis Beach and Steve Ellis on guards. Mike Cohol and Bill Prehs may see considerable action at guards as both have started several games this season.

In Girard's past three games Michaels, Kender and Beach have been the leaders offensively, averaging about eight points per game. Kender will have the task of watching Salem's high scoring Bill Brian and is expected to be a problem for Brian, as he is noted for his defensive ability.

Coach Brown intends to use the same starting group that performed so well last week in the Alliance and East Liverpool games. At forward will be Frank Entriken and Mutt Schaeffer, Walt Brian will function from his center spot, with Francis Lanney and Jimmie Appedisan in at guards. Schaeffer's work Friday in the Liverpool game makes him a threat as a scorer and Brown intends to use him some in the back court before the season is over.

Norman Smith, who wasn't in uniform Friday, is expected to back with the squad Tuesday. His return to the team will bolster considerably the reserve shortage that was evident in the Liverpool battle.

Brown Fears Let-down
Brown's biggest worry, he said today, was that of an expected let-down after the all-important Potter game. Salem put up an excellent show against the powerful Potter squad, and a let-down against Girard, where the rivalry isn't so keen, would be very dangerous to the Quakers. He has been showing considerable improvement in their last few battles.
Another important clash is scheduled for the high school gym this week, as Canton Lincoln, victors over Salem 43-25 in Canton earlier this year, come to return the Quaker's visit. Lincoln knocked the Quakers off in Canton for their first win of the season and since the have taken Minerva for their second Friday in Alliance the Lions lost but in the final seconds, 43-42, to the Avon squad that Salem downed 30-29.

Dark Horse Bowler Wins

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—Just as they were about to declare Harold Asplund of Denver, Colo., the winner in the 31st edition of the Petersen individual bowling tournament, a 32-year-old dark horse stepped out from nowhere and napped the capital prize of $5,000.
John Farkas of Detroit, an automotive employee with only a 189 average in league play, created an 11th hour upset by scoring 1,658 to win bowling's richest singles prize. Asplund had 1,633.

Billy Jurgens of the Giants and Billy Herman of the Dodgers both fielded 964 with the Chicago Cubs in 1935 to top National League key-stone combinations that season.

Lend-lease shipments of food from the U. S. during the first 11 months of 1943 totaled ten and a half billion pounds.

BOWLING

NEWS

Much interest was shown in the doubles tournament at the Bowling Center Saturday and Sunday. Play will be resumed Feb. 19 and 20. Any couple may enter if the combined averages do not exceed 320. Prizes will be given to the top 15 teams.

K. Brudery and J. McCoy, with 1047, are leading thus far. Brudery having contributed 613.

In second place are Herb Ward and Bob Wright with 1042; Curt Hippiely and Pete Johnson third with 1014; and tied for fourth at 1009 are E. Early and F. Vesey, and Bill Hull and Ann Skorpinski.

Betty Hicks, Former Golf Champ, Discovers SPAR Commando Course Isn't Really Tough

By BETTY HICKS

Specialist 30, U. S. C. G. R.

PALM BEACH, FLA. TRAINING STATION OBSTACLE COURSE

You could have whisked me over with an application blank when somebody told me the SPARs have a commando course at our Palm Beach Training Station. I'm an ex-athlete, perhaps a little broken-down, but I figure I can take anything the SPARs can dish up to me in the physical training line. But a commando course is something else again.
"I suppose they're going to have SPARs go in on the first amphibious wave when we start the next European invasion," I said to Lieut. (jg) Margaret Thomas, officer-in-charge of physical education at the station.

Had Wrong Idea

It seems I had the whole thing figured wrong. I could picture myself climbing a barbed wire fence with a machine gun in my teeth. On the other side I'd jump a water ditch and spend the rest of the war in sick bay, healing my broken bones.
But Lieut. Thomas explained the object of the course before I went to the wooded lot on the beach where it is located. "We place no stress on speed at all," she said. "The course is not difficult, though some of the obstacles are tricky. The object is to develop grace and

AP Features

SEATTLE — The shot in the arm needed by minor leagues, says one of the minors' most successful owners, is a dash of about one part "Brooklyn" along with nine parts baseball.

The reference to the arm, of course, is of the variety that reaches out of the boxoffice to rake in the cash.

The suggestions of "Brooklynizing" the game—with apologies to the sensitive—refers to showmanship in general, not to the raucous chorus: "Trow de bum out!"

Emil Sick, whose regime brought a flair of showmanship to Seattle's Pacific Coast League park, assures that he would want nothing introduced which would cheapen the game or put it on a vaudeville level, but:

"The turnstile success of the Dodgers in recent years has proved that baseball needs something in addition to the game to provide entertainment for the fans who might not be interested in the technical phases of the game.

"Looking at the diamond picture with less technical eyes, I believe that baseball is primarily a show. We can use more special nights, more bands, more hoopla to add to the excitement. And, as far as I am concerned, Seattle will have that kind of baseball entertainment from now on."

Sick, a leading brewery operator and past president of the Chamber of Commerce, was looking through a pair of those "less technical eyes" when he bought the Seattle franchise in 1938. He didn't know much about the game.

Sick really doesn't have to look toward Brooklyn as a pay-off example for showmanship. He could point out to Sick's Stadium, the $500,000 "house that Emil built."

The stadium is a net layout for the minors, but it doesn't have any appeal to Dixie Walker, the Brooklyn outfielder. When Dixie was in Seattle recently with a baseball tour enroute to Alaska to entertain the boys in khaki, Stan Musial suggested he'd like to "take a peek at the ball park."

"Not for me, brotha," drawled the guy from Georgia. "Ah'm not lookin' at the inside of these minah league ball parks befo' Ah have to. They give me the willies. You get to see 'em too soon as it is."

Sick's team drew half a million customers through the stadium gates in 1940 for a Pacific Coast League record. Resumption of night play is expected to bring prosperity again this year.

In six years, Sick's Seattle teams have won three league titles and never finished below third.

For a season or two, the Rainiers were known as "showboats." Their lineup included such show-offs as Jojo White, now with the Philadelphia Athletics; Bill Schuster, now with the Chicago Cubs, and Dick Barrett, now with the Phillies. They were crowd pleasers.

Seattle believes it is the only ball town where they have group singing at the games. The stadium echoes to "take me out to the ball game" during the seventh inning stretch.

That's just a little addition to the color out at Sick's place, along with special nights for the manager, for Al Schacht comedy or for a favorite player. Eastern visitors often have praised these special nights.

Which leads Business Manager Bill Mulligan to remark: "Brooklyn better take a page from our book."

In 1936 Roger Bacon published a book which gave the first description of how lenses can aid sight.

Rep. Cochran Learns To Walk Once More

WASHINGTON—"Keep looking at your mama. Don't look at your feet," wrote a seven-year-old admirer of Congressman John A. Cochran, (D-Mo) when he'd lost his legs last year, and would have to learn to walk again.

But Congressman Cochran is learning so fast that his teachers from the Institute for Crippled and Disabled in New York say he learned in four hours during the Christmas holidays what it usually takes 10 days to do toward walking with wooden legs.

Mr. Cochran lost his legs just below the hip in 1943 from heart disease. He has been in a wheel chair ever since.

"It's no miracle," Col John N. Smith (a West Pointer) commented at the Institute from which 30,000 crippled civilians have returned to normal life since the last World War. The Red Cross started this hospital. Now the Army Air Corps has men there learning to help casualties do what Rep. Cochran has done.

He expects to be able to walk fast enough to cross streets, to learn how to get into a bus, to walk up and down steps. And he says if he can do it at past 60, many an American boy can do it if he comes home a casualty.

Garden Seed Sales Are Starting Early

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Feb. 7.—Garden seed was on sale today in Ohio two months ahead of schedule, because early-season demands of victory gardeners, and seed specialists said there would be enough to "go around."

The only scarcity is in cabbage and tomato seed, said C. C. Finch, Ohio Farm bureau horticulturist, who reported plenty of other seeds and garden fertilizer available.

Ohio State university seed specialists urged candidates not to overstock. Most seed saved from last year's still is good, they said, urging gardeners to test it between pieces of damp blotting paper for a week or so to make sure it will not sprout before buying more. Finch said the average cost of seed this year was up 10 to 12 per cent because of increased production costs.

University crop experts expressed hope there would be no let-up in the Victory garden program this year.

They said some persons might find store shelves packed and feel it was unnecessary to plant a garden, not realizing this stock was available because so many persons raised the bulk of their food supplies in 1943.

"This might work a real hardship on the nation, and could bring a real food shortage next year," said Horticulturist Victor H. Reis.

is charged with aggression against Russia and Yugoslavia.

This Soviet move would seem calculated to unhorse the Bulgarian government and bring the country into the Red camp. Indications long have been that it wouldn't take much pressure to persuade the Bulgarian people to take matters into their own hands, since the majority of them are pro-Russian and have been clamoring for the government to desert Hitler.

Of course, the winning over of Bulgaria would be a grand gain for the Allies. It might be the thing which would blow the Nazis out of the Balkan peninsula and place their right wing in Russia in still further jeopardy. However, I think we are entitled to interpret Moscow's maneuver as fitting perfectly into the picture of Soviet extension of influence.

Moscow has made it quite clear that it considers the Balkan peninsula to be within Russia's sphere of influence. That doesn't mean the Soviet intends to annex Balkan territory. However, Communism already has a hold not only in Bulgaria but in Greece and Yugoslavia. Should Communist governments be established in those states, they might apply for membership in the Soviet union.

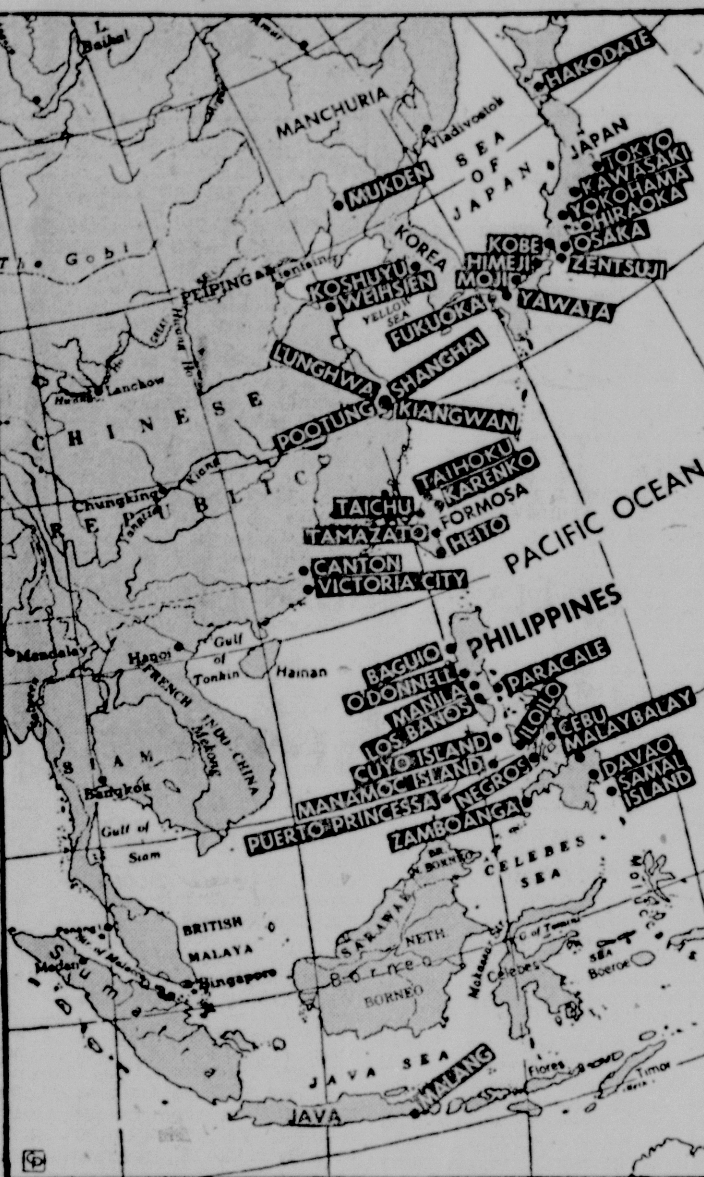

Admission of the coming Russian domination of at least eastern Europe is seen in the declaration last week by Dr. Benes, president of the little republic Czechoslovakia, that his country is going to orient its policy towards Moscow. Prior to the Nazi upheaval, Czechoslovakia looked to France and Britain for security. Now it's the Soviet union.

Barracks Now Clubroom

BLYTHEVILLE ARMY AIR FIELD, Ark.—Corporal Mike Farr wandered toward the snack bar of the new service club here for his free coke and cup cake. When he got there he stopped, blinked his eyes and yelled: "Hey! I used to sleep over there." When they enlarged the club they included what had been his barracks not so long ago as a wing of the service club.

The average yield of Canadian wheat land is 16 bushels per acre.

WHERE JAPS HOLD U. S. PRISONERS

FROM MUKDEN in Manchuria and Hakodate in Japan to Malang, Java, stretches the vast chain of Jap prison camps in which Americans are held either as military prisoners or civilians who were held after Pearl Harbor. As shown on this map, which is based on information provided by the International Red Cross, there are more than 40 camps and, in these, are more than 50,000 Americans—although the exact figures are not known. While the Red Cross has made every effort to get the usual special supply packages to the Americans, the Japs were last among the nations to allow such shipments—despite international agreements. But one shipment has gone through and a second, which left but a few months ago, has been reported with cargo rotting on the docks in the Russian port of Vladivostok. (International)

'Dead End Kids' Nemesis

Of Japs In Far Pacific

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC Feb. 7.—The "Dead End Kids" of the United States Marine corps are spilling for more Jap-hunting after coming through their first expedition on making without a scratch.

A hard-hitting, specially-trained outfit, the "Kids" earned their name many youths ago when training on the west coast. Welded together by specialized schooling on how to kill Japs efficiently and silently with bare hands, knives or any weapon at hand, they became inseparable in camp and on liberty, and other Marines tagged them the "Dead End Kids."

The "Dead End Kids," most of them in their late teens or early 20s include: Corp. Paul C. Burks, of Hartwell, O.; and Pfc. Richard C. Barr, of Rocky River, O.

Army 'Chinese Restaurant'

Awaiting Action In Japan

WITH UNITED STATES FIFTH ARMY, Italy—Every day, close to the front lines, four Chinese-American soldiers get together to discuss the war, that is, the war in the Far East against the Japs. Not too patiently, they are awaiting their chance to go into action on more familiar soil against a more common enemy.

The quartet is known as "the General's Chinese Restaurant." That's because the four men prepare food for a divisional commander and his staff.

They are Corp. Charles J. Lee of Portland, Ore., and Pfc. Sing Mong of Los Angeles, Hoon Dare of Berkeley, Cal., and Taw Hong of Jackson, Miss. All are veterans of the North African campaign.

Washington Round-up

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The senate opened its third week of debate on the question of votes for men and women of the armed services today, with proponents of a "states rights" bill seeking to sidetrack the administration's federal war ballot measure.

Sen. Overton of Louisiana, one of the Democrats who has joined forces with a bloc of Republicans to prevent federal interference with state regulation, indicated supporters of a house-passed bill to leave military absentee voting up to the states were not depressed by the defeat handed them last week.

Referring to a tie vote in the senate last Tuesday he declared, "I don't consider a tie vote conclusive on such an important issue: The issue of state voting as against federal voting." He indicated he would move for immediate reconsideration.

If the motion is successful, the administration's war ballot bill would be side-tracked, and fore consideration of the states' rights' measure. This bill, if approved without amendment, would then go to President Roosevelt, who already has termed it "a fraud."

Administration forces, however, are confident they have the votes to push the Green-Lucas federal ballot bill through to final passage. This would send the entire controversy back to the house. The possibilities in such event point to a deadlock, and many legislators predict both bills will be dropped and a new measure introduced giving the states the right to say whether they will accept federal ballots.

TAXES

AFTER six months of work, Congress was due to give final approval today to the $2,315,000,000 tax bill, and shuttle it off to the White House. The second wartime revenue measure, which increases total federal revenue to $42,239,200,000 a year, has been criticized by the President as "unrealistic."

easily have seen the dark silent shadows of the approaching ships without use of any detecting devices.

Led The Attack From the ships—its snow-covered mass rearing white, cold and lightless from the sea. The blackout supported belief the Japanese expected another air attack.

A division of destroyers under Commander Hunter Wood, who captained the Destroyer Smith when it was struck on the forward deck by a flaming Japanese Zero in South Pacific action, led heavier ships of the task force into shelling position along the eastern side of Kurabu point. The remainder of the force, led by Capt. H. L. Gearing, another dashing Navy commander, swung westward toward the sea of Ohokotsk and bombarded from that side.

Helsinki Bombed By Red Airplanes

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 7.—Fires still were burning in Helsinki at noon today from two Russian bombings Sunday which hit 200 buildings and killed 38 persons, the Finnish legation in Stockholm said.

The attacking bombers dropped mine bombs and incendiaries, it was officially announced at the Finnish capital. The announcement listed 232 persons as wounded.

(Advices reaching London said telephone communication between Helsinki and Stockholm had been cut again today, suggesting the possibility of a third raid in what apparently is a concentrated effort to drive Finland out of the war.)

Thousands of women, children and elderly persons began to evacuate Helsinki.

Advices from the Finnish capital said more than 30 persons were killed and 35 fires started during the seven-hour attack.

(A Finnish communique recorded in New York said more than 200 enemy planes took part and 38 persons were killed and 232 injured, other parts of Finland also were raided, the communique said.)
